

From: richard
To: Microsoft ATR
Date: 1/14/02 11:21am
Subject: Stop the harrassment

When is the government going to stop the harrassment? The government made a mistake going after IBM years ago and I think the government is making another big mistake. I am a consumer and I don't think Microsoft has done anything wrong. I don't see the anticompetitive practices, Microsoft's products are cheap. Yes, Microsoft is huge and is the big bully on the block, but, how can you say that there is no competition in the software industry when everything around us is thriving. Microsoft has set the standard and it is difficult for other companies to accept. There would be chaos if there were no standard Windows operating system like Microsoft's. I see no problem with Microsoft's practices so, and let's more on. Richard L. Bernal